Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2009137885A1] A method and apparatus for playing a game, where at step (100), a game piece is selected, where the game piece has a first distinguishing feature. At step (110), the game piece is placed in a position associated with a scoring device. In this example, the scoring device has a second distinguishing feature. Accordingly, at step (120), a score is obtained with respect to the relationship between the first distinguishing feature and the second distinguishing feature.
