Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2010131173A1] The system (1) is associated to exhibitor units containing panels (3) which are singly movable in order to allow vision thereof, and comprises: sensor means (4) associated to each of the panels (3) for detecting movements of the each of the panels (3) from a rest position (R) thereof to a viewing position (V) thereof and vice versa; at least a peripheral processing unit (5) associated to a corresponding exhibitor unit (2) and destined to receive and store data coming from the sensor means (4); at least a monitor (11), associated to a corresponding exhibitor unit (2) and connected to a relative peripheral processing unit (5) and destined to display images originating therefrom; a telematic connection (6) for interfacing the peripheral processing unit (5) with a central processing unit (7) situated in a remote operating location (8) and able to acquire the data contained in the peripheral processing unit (5), as well as being able to pilot the peripheral processing unit (5) and the monitor (11) associated thereto. The system can comprise a second telematic connection (9), destined to make the data contained in the central processing unit (7) accessible from at least a station (10) which is detached with respect to the operating location (8).
