Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2010148537A1] A refrigerated merchandiser includes an outer cabinet (20) defining an interior volume having a top access opening (17), and a liner assembly (30) disposed within the interior volume of the outer cabinet (20) and defining a product display space (15) having an open top. The liner assembly (30) includes an evaporator (60) contacting an inner liner (31) and bounding an air circulation duct (50) through which air circulating from the product display space (15) passes. Refrigerant circulating through the evaporator (60) cools both the inner liner (31) and the circulating air. The circulating air passes across the open top of the product display space (15) to form an air curtain (70).
