Abstract (en)
The invention relates to an applicator device (1) for fusible products, particularly depilatory wax, comprising a casing (2) which can be held with one hand and is open at the upper part, delimiting a cavity (3) which, in the form of a receptacle, receives the insertion of a wax-storing container (4) provided with dispensing means (5). Said casing is provided with a plug (6) for its connection to the slots of an electrical socket, the prongs (7) of the plug being permanently connected by means of low resistivity electrical connection means (9c) to heating means (9) essentially powered at the voltage of the mains and arranged in the receptacle facing at least one of the faces of the wax-storing container.
