Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2452587A2] The device (1) has an arch shaped support (3) whose ends (41, 42) are connected together by an elastically deformable central arm (47). The arm occupies a rest position in which the arm plates one of the ends of the support at an end of a base (2) when a fixing unit of the support is cooperated with a fixing unit (21) of the base. Another end of the support is chamfered to allow introduction of a branch of pair of spectacles between the ends of the support and the base, which guides leads to distance from each other at the ends of the support based on elastic deformation of the central arm. An independent claim is also included for a method for supporting a pair of spectacles on a cloth.
