Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2461105A1] Cooking appliance comprising at least one heat source (1), an actuator (2) associated to the heat source (1), which is operated by a user to act on the corresponding heat source (1) and which comprises at least one associated switch (3; 3a, 3b) whose state changes when the user acts on said actuator (2), and a connection (l) to an external power supply through which it is powered, which comprises at least two terminals (T1, T2). The switch (3; 3a) associated to the actuator (2) is connected in series to the connection (l), so that the appliance (100) does not consume energy from the external power supply unless the actuator (2) is acted on.
