Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2465389A2] The shelf has two vertical main supporting columns (1), and an extension module comprising a horizontally-aligned supporting frame (2) that is fastened to the supporting columns for supporting goods or container with goods. The supporting frame is connected with a vertical auxiliary support (3) that is smaller than the main supporting columns, where the extension module has a height supporting column. The extension module with the supporting frame is attached to a base module (B), where the supporting frame is connected to another auxiliary support and/or to another main supporting column.
