Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2476620A1] The device has several circumferential extension units (3) for receiving and dilating the film cores, such that the container is pushed into the film cores. A servo motor (27) is provided for driving spreader pin, to perform relative movement of film sleeve and container with respect to each other in radial and/or axial directions. An independent claim is included for method for attaching elastic film sleeves on vessels.
