Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2011042637A1] The invention relates to a framework for attaching supporting panels and facing panels in order to produce a wall provided with plumbing elements, or for attaching facing panels onto each of the surfaces of the framework in order to produce a partition. The framework includes at least one lower rail and vertical posts connected by the lower end thereof to the lower rail. Each post (3) comprises, on the front thereof, a longitudinal slide (31) having a longitudinal opening (32), wherein a vertical profile member (4) is arranged in the slide (31) and is capable of sliding and being locked in a fixed position, and including a connecting means (43) opposite the longitudinal opening (32) of the slide for attaching the panels, preferably in a releasable manner.
