Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2011080403A1] The invention relates to a baby cloth that comprises at least one seam (5), by which two fabric strips (1, 2) have been fastened. The edges of the fabric strips (1, 2) have been placed opposite each other with an inside against an inside and fastened, the protruding edge portions (V, 2') having been folded against the outer surface of the cloth, and a covering ribbon (4) having been attached on top of them. The inner surface of the cloth that becomes against the skin is thus as smooth and non-chafing as possible.
