Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2011086237A1] The invention relates to a method for coating a material article with a coating composition. In accordance with the invention the material article is formed by a injection moulding and the material article is encapsulated with the coating composition, the coating composition contains at least one polymer and a coupling agent having reactive groups with the material article, and the coupling agent is activated to its active state in connection with the injection moulding to form chemical bonds between the material article and the coupling agent. Further, the invention relates to a corresponding method for forming an injection moulded product and a corresponding injection moulded product.
