Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2532441A1] The assembly has a bottle comprising a product sampling device that is mounted sealingly on a deformable body (1) of the bottle. The body comprises a filling valve for sealingly connecting a product source with an empty reservoir having an air depression, such that the depression induces filling of the reservoir through suction of a fluid product contained in the product source. The bottle is arranged in a sealed space that is formed by walls (23a) of a sachet (23), where the sealed space has air depression. The walls respectively have polyester layers and/or aluminum layers.
