Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2538284A1] The bezel has a retaining unit i.e. protrusion, arranged to engage with an edge (8) that is arranged on a watch case (3) to attach the bezel to the case in an angular locked position. Push buttons (4, 4'), which are radially actuated, are provided on a periphery of the bezel. Each button includes locking/unlocking elements i.e. screws (6, 6'), to lock or unlock rotation of the bezel. The screws engage with an under-bezel (2) of the case when the bezel is mounted on the case, such that pressing of the push buttons unlocks the rotation of the bezel. An independent claim is also included for a watch case.
