Abstract (en)
A tobacco filler comprises a mixture of a first smoking material and a second smoking material. The first smoking material contains a base smoking material and a phosphoric acid-based compound added to the base smoking material, in which the phosphoric acid-based compound is added to the base smoking material such that the amount of phosphoric acid-based compound is about 2 to about 5% of the weight of the base smoking material. The second smoking material is consisting of a material to which no phosphoric acid-based compound is added. The first smoking material accounts for 20 to 60% by weight of the above mixture and the second smoking material accounts for 80 to 40% by weight of the above mixture.
