Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2541521A2] The device e.g. remote control (106), has a screen (107) for reproducing data e.g. image, and a communication unit for receiving data to be rendered and control the data to be reproduced, where the control is triggered following a cooperation with a set-top box (100). A processing unit processes the received data, and returns the processed data to the screen. A user interface (108) is provided for interacting with a user, where the processing unit receives the data to be reproduced from the set-top box via the communication unit. Independent claims are also included for the following: (1) a method for controlling an electronic device (2) a computer program comprising instructions for controlling an electronic device.
