Abstract (en)
[origin: CA2792792A1] The invention relates to a receptacle (1) for a liquid or paste-like product, in particular a cosmetics product, comprising a removal part (5) and a storage space for the product, wherein the removal part (5) can be introduced in the storage space and be removed penetrating a wiper unit (20). In order to provide a receptacle that makes it possible for a loading state of the removed removal part with product to be as advantageous as possible according to individual aspects, the wiper unit (20) can be varied with respect to a wiping effect by an external action.
