Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2549218A2] The supply cabinet (1) has a frame (2) which consists of two transverse struts and two longitudinal struts, where the longitudinal struts connect the transverse struts. An insert (7) is detachably received in the frame and the frame has an engagement contour, in which a supporting strut is inserted detachably and with variable arrangement. The supporting strut is equipped with an engaging element that is designed complimentary to the engagement contour. The insert is a receiving box variably adapted to the geometry of the received objects.
