Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2011125032A2] The fitting for a dishwashing machine comprises a filtering element (10) having a filtering side wall (12) and defining internally a cavity (14), the cross-section of the bottom portion of which tapers in a downwards direction. The bottom end of the element (10) is also provided with means designed to allow connection of the fitting to an external member. A conveyor plate (18) may be associated as required with the top end of the filtering element (10).
