Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2591830A1] The space has a padel i.e. evolution surface (1), implanted according to perpendicular axes (2, 3) and vertical nets (4) placed on the axes. The nets, which divide each ground into 2 sides, are fixed and upper edges of the nets have different heights adapted to practice different sports so as to simultaneously allow the practice of different sports/same sport on different grounds and successively practice other sports. The nets cross in an eccentric point of the space distinct from median axes of the space to allow implantation of nets on grounds and practice different sports.
