Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012019891A1] The invention relates to a household appliance comprising a cooktop (1) having at least one cooking zone (7a; 7b), wherein the cooktop (1) is set up for determining and displaying a consumption of power of the at least one cooking zone (7a; 7b). The method serves for displaying a consumption of power on a household appliance, wherein the household appliance comprises a cooktop (1) having at least one cooking zone (7a; 7b), and a consumption of power for each cooking zone (7a; 7b) is determined and displayed individually and/or cumulatively for all cooking zones (7a; 7b) on the basis of the cooktop (1) being switched off.
