Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2607276A1] There is described a device (1) and the related method of use to feed flat objects (50), for example blanks of paper material and the like, comprising conveyor means (2) for one or more flat objects, and at least one loading body (3), in turn comprising a base element (4) and at least one lateral surface (5) to retain one or more flat objects (50). The base element (4) is movable between a first position to receive at least one flat object and a second position to load at least one flat object on the conveyor means. The device is characterized in that it comprises first support means (10) for at least one of the flat objects conveyed on the conveyor means and in that the first support means (10) are movable relative to the conveyor means (2) to reach at least one position of contact with at least one of the flat objects conveyed.
