Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012034171A1] The invention concerns a method for controlling access for a storage enclosure (102). When an item is delivered to the storage enclosure (102), an access code is transmitted to a recipient. The access code is accepted when input by the recipient and access is permitted to the storage enclosure (102). The invention also provides a system for controlling access to a storage enclosure (102) secured by a closure. The system includes a processor (112) configured to transmit an access code to a recipient upon delivery into the enclosure (102) of an item for the recipient, recognize the access code input by the recipient and allow the recipient access to the enclosure (102) by releasing the closure.
