Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2617920A1] The device (34) has a unilaterally open stabilization housing (36) comprising a retaining pocket for partially retaining a main lock casing (12) or additional lock casings (14, 16) of locking devices. An anchoring point designed as a screwing aperture is provided at a bottom of the retaining pocket and comprises a contact surface for a screw head, where the contact surface is bent around an angle of 30 degrees relative to a plane of an insertion opening of the retaining pocket. The stabilization housing comprises exterior walls partially tapered in a conical form.
