Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012042550A1] A device is described for forming reels of web-like material around winding cores (10; 10X). To facilitate the tearing of the web-like material on completion of the winding process, one end of a tear-off tape (S) is attached to the winding core by means of an anchoring device (21). The tape is drawn from a crosswise guide 17 and wound in a helix around the winding core, thereby tearing off the web-like material.
