Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2628430A2] The receptacle (150) has housing (160) with separating chamber (110) that separates a collecting volume structure (220) and vortex separator. An opening (210) is formed in the housing, such that particles from vortex separator is transferred to the collecting volume structure of receptacle. The support elements (250) are partially extended into the collecting volume structure, and are connected to the housing. An independent claim is included for lid for locking of opening of receptacle.
