Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012052345A1] The invention relates to a drawer fitting (1) for connecting a drawer to a central locking rod (4) of a central locking device (3), comprising a guide housing (10) having a mounting side (11) for being mounted to a lateral wall (7) of a drawer and a locking element (12) that is guided in the guide housing (10) and can be coupled to the drawer, said locking element comprising a pin (13) for engagement into the central locking rod (4). According to the invention, it is provided that the locking element (12) is fixedly connected to the guide housing (10) prior to the initial installation of the drawer fitting (1) and that said connection can be released by the initial installation of the drawer fitting (1) to the lateral wall (7) of the drawer or by an initial movement of the locking element (12) within the guide housing (10).
