Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012063004A1] The invention relates to a device for dispensing a deodorant product (17) for a toilet flushing device. The dispensing device comprises a container (15) that can house a supply of the deodorant product (17) and said dispensing device can be mounted in the flushing device such that the container (15) can be rotated. Moreover, the dispensing device is arranged such that, when the container (15) is rotated from an equilibrium position to a pivoted position, an amount of deodorant product (17) is released from the container (15).
