Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2642613A2] The system has mounting elements (100,200) that are detachably fastened to one another. The centering units (110,210) of mounting elements are arranged to couple together and contact units (120,220) e.g. socket contact systems are coupled to each other. The mounting elements are aligned to each other before contact units inject during movement of the centering units. The centering units are made to receive the fixed mounting elements and to hold lamp when the contact units are coupled. The mutual electrical contacts are arranged to contact each other when contact units are coupled.
