Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012089760A1] A conveying means for loads or persons has at least one transport element (1) for the persons and/or loads or for coupling the load, and a drive system for the transport element. In order to produce a smaller drive system, at least one linear drive (3, 5) is provided for the or each transport element (1), and the linear drive (3, 5) directly or indirectly applies a drive torque to the transport means (1) in at least one working direction.
