Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012092383A1] The various embodiments of the present invention are directed to floor systems and to methods of making and using the floor systems. The floor systems generally include a flooring unit. The flooring unit includes a decorative flooring unit component, a flooring unit platform, and a radiant heating system element. The flooring unit platform can be fabricated to comprise a portion of a mechanical joint, which is used to couple or mate two adjacent flooring unit components.
