Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2662498A1] The foundation system has a foundation block (1) for arrangement on a foundation base and a securing element (3) which is arranged at or on the foundation block. A rod-shaped ground anchorage element is provided for insertion into the foundation block, with which the securing element is connected. The securing element has a hole for fastening the ground anchorage element. The ground anchorage element is formed as round bar, which exceeds the height of the foundation block. An independent claim is included for a foundation block for a construction set for installing a foundation, particularly for a dry stone walls.
