Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2662635A1] The appliance has a cooking chamber including a feed aperture, where the feed aperture is closed by a door (5). The door includes a frame with two supporting rail sections (7), where two surface components (8, 18) are arranged on the two supporting rail sections. The frame includes two spacer units (9), where one of the spacer units is made flexible, so as to align the surface components relative to the rail sections. The spacer units are movable secured at the supporting rail sections, where the spacer units are formed from a curved sheet metal.
