Abstract (en)

The present application in particular is directed to a method of operating a laundry washing machine (1). The method comprises a main processing step (S4) in which a laundry drum (4) is rotated by a motor (9) for mechanical treatment of the laundry. The main processing step is divided into high-performance (H) and low-performance stages (L), wherein all high-performance stages (H) are of an equal first duration (d1) and/or all low-performance stages (L) are of an equal second duration (d2).
