Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2667088A1] The luminaire (10) has a fastening device (16) that includes a connecting element (18) movably arranged on the upper side of a luminaire main portion. A retaining projection (26) slightly projects beyond the contour of the main portion at one position and extends outwardly over the contour of the main portion at other position. The connecting element is equipped with two legs connected to the main portion, such that the height of other leg opposite the main portion is adjustable.
