Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012113715A1] The invention relates to a method for production and to a wiper blade for wiping panes, in particular motor vehicle panes, comprising a support element (12) for receiving a wiper strip (14), to which support element a connecting device (20) is attached, which has a wiper blade-side part (15) having receptacles (34, 36) surrounding the support element (12) at least in some regions. According to the invention, the inner width (42) of the receptacles (34, 36) essentially corresponds to, or is slightly larger than, the thickness of the support element (12).
