Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2684486A1] The backpack (1) has a lap belt whose fins (7) are connected with a closure of the lap belt over lock belts (14, 15). The lock belts comprise a belt tensioner (13) that faces the fins and is connected with the backpack over a position adjustable belt (4). A travel direction of the position adjustable belt is deflected in a region of the fins, where the position adjustable belt is connected with the lock belts over a guide eye (12). A stiffening element (3) is attached at a rear wall (8) of the backpack and comprises a support plate and frames that are arranged on the support plate.
