Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012123675A1] The applicator for applying a product to the eyelashes comprises a wand and a brush having at least two independent supports (22) that follow one another along an axis (20) of the wand, each support bearing protuberances (34, 36) that have respective feet (40). At least one group of four consecutive feet at least of each support forms a regular series around the axis, two of the feet of the group constituting two ends that end the series.
