Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012130640A1] Method for operating a system for managing access rights to operating and/or control data from buildings or building complexes (5), in which a communication enabling service running on a first server (3) enables communication by a user who is logged on with an identity with the buildings or building complexes (5) which are stored for said user in a list (4) if the identity of said user matches an identity that is stored in the list (4), and, when the communication has been enabled by the communication enabling service, a building authorization service running on a second server (2) enables specific access rights for the user to operating and/or control data from the building or building complex (5) on the basis of access rights that are stored in an authorization database (20).
