Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2703616A1] A method of making first and second vehicles (M1, M2) of different output powers is such that a first exhaust device (D1) for a high output power is connectable with a connecting portion (88) of a first combustion engine (E1) in the first vehicle (M1) and a second exhaust device (D2) for a low output power is connectable with a connecting portion (88A) of the second combustion engine (E2) in the second vehicle (M2), but the first exhaust device (D1) is non-connectable with the connecting portion (88A). The first vehicle (M1) of a high output power is assembled by connecting the first exhaust device (D1) with the first combustion engine (E1) and the second vehicle (M2) of a low output power is assembled by connecting the second exhaust device (D2) with the second combustion engine (E2).
