Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2012152501A1] The invention relates to a strapping station and to a method for strapping groupings, packagings (12), products for packaging and/or grouped items or products for packaging having at least one strap (14, 34), which is placed and/or tensioned approximately horizontally and/or vertically and/or diagonally around the outer side of the packagings (12), products for packaging or group of items or products for packaging and/or forms an open or a closed ring, and which is tensioned such as to form a solid combination of the packagings (12), goods for packaging and the like. A magazine (30) feeds the strap (34) at least to an application head (28) for applying the strapping (14) to a respective grouping, packaging (12), at least one product for packaging and/or the grouped items or products for packaging. The strap (34, 36) additionally runs and is conveyed substantially without guidance and/or in a free-floating manner, at least within a working range of the application head (28).
