Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2709077A1] The box has a fill head (34) moved in an opening direction in an open position. A locking unit (50) comprises an engaging element (52) that engages with an engaging element (56) of the head. Another engaging element (58) of the head is arranged such that the engaging element of the locking unit engages with the latter engaging element of the head in a lock position if engagement between the engaging element of the locking unit and the former engaging element of the head is released. The head is moved in the opening direction without unlocking the locking unit.
