Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2716836A1] The device (10) has a nut channel limited by a rear limiting unit and a front channel wall and provided for engaging a counter locking element i.e. hexagonal countering threaded nut. A longitudinal hole is formed in the wall, and enables variable positioning of the element in an expansion direction. Fastening elements (11) are arranged at a distance to each other, where the distance is adapted to a hole distance of a sun protection element. A fixing element fixes position of the device at a supporting element (50), where the device is made from aluminum or plastic.
