Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2721963A1] The arrangement (1) has a coupling shaft (2), and a coupling projection (3) inserted into the shaft in a mounted condition. A coupling bolt (4) is fastened to the projection, and a coupling groove (5) is formed within the shaft. A coupling element (6) has a hanging projection (7) and an insertion projection (8). The coupling element, groove and bolt are arranged such that tensile stress lies between the hanging and insertion projections in the mounted condition for holding the coupling projection in the shaft and for holding the insertion projection in the groove in a self-locking manner. Independent claims are also included for the following: (1) a seat furniture (2) a mounting method for connecting a back carrier to a seat support.
