Abstract (en)

It is provided a bottle for a pump dispenser, comprising a bottle body for bordering a filling volume, wherein the bottle body comprises a bottom part for closing the filling volume at the bottom, the bottom part comprising a mainly ring-shaped stand face for placing the bottle onto a ground, a centre part arranged radially inside the stand face, wherein the centre part is formed mainly convex at an inside face pointing towards the filling volume and the centre part is formed mainly concave at an outside face pointing away from the filling volume, a channel part for accommodating a dip tube of a pump dispenser pump, wherein the channel part is formed as a deepening at the inside face of the centre part and the channel part is formed as a protrusion at the outside face of the centre part, and at least one stiffening rib connected with the outside face of the centre part and a side face of the channel part outside the filling volume. Due to the forming of the centre part and the channel part as well as due to the provided stiffening rib(s) the bottom part comprises a significantly increased stiffness against popping out the bottom part of the bottle body at increasing inside gas pressure, so that the filling volume of the bottle body may collect a higher amount of out-gassed components of a liquid over a longer storing term.
