Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2742845A2] A dishwashing machine base (10) defines a housing for at least a movable structure of support (20), which is constrained to the base (10) displaceable through a front passage (12) and being capable to assume an inoperative and an operative position. The base (10) is arranged to support a dishwashing machine (1) and in its configuration of installation the front passage (12) is below a front door (6) of the machine dishwasher (1). The base (10) and the support structure (20) are configured in such a way that, in the installed condition and with the support structure (20) in its operative position, the support structure (20) protrudes laterally beyond the dimension width of the base (10), to be accessible by users even when the front door (6) of the dishwashing machine (1) is horizontally opened.
