Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2745726A1] The element (10) has a shell (12) extending in a transverse direction and including front walls (14a, 14b), where each wall is prolonged towards the center of the shell by a tubular portion. A notch extends in the transverse direction between the tubular portions (16a, 16b) of the shell, so as to define a bottom located below a tangent plane (P) to an axial orifice (18a) of the wall and parallel to a transverse plane. An insert formed of a perforated bearing block is fitted into each of the tubular portions, so that each block is aligned with the orifice of the wall.
