Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2762026A1] The shoe has an upper part comprising a bale part, toe part and a heel portion, and a sole comprising a base part that is designed as a single-piece and made from metal i.e. spring steel. The base part is supported on legs (1, 1') that are arranged on sides of the shoe. The legs project from the sides in a downwardly spinning manner. One of the legs is arranged below a heel middle. Projecting wires (3, 4) are formed at the base part, where the base part is formed with a transversely running plate part (2). The wires are arranged symmetrically at both ends of a vertical middle plate.
