Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2764809A2] The shower partition (100) has a sliding door (20) and a guiding device (30) for guiding the sliding door during a horizontal sliding process. The guiding device is fastened in an upper area (5) of a wall element (10). The wall element has a projection (1) in the upper area. The projection supports the guiding device and the guiding device protrudes over the projection. The wall element is integrally formed together with the projection. The wall element and the projection are completely formed of glass.
