Abstract (en)
A packaging system for collecting bags in a collection unit such as a box or a container. The packaging system comprises at least two tilting plates for transferring the bags to the collection unit, said tilting plates being pivotally connected to hinge joints. Further, the first tilting plates are connected to a displacement means being adapted to displace the tilting plates in vertical direction. Further, the packaging system comprises a pushing means adapted to be moved in horizontal direction and thereby push the bags onto the tilting plates.
