Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2775038A1] The shaft covering (90) has intervention locking element (80) in inserted state of shaft covering in intervention detent position that prevents positively and/or actuates movement of shaft covering relative to shaft. A locking device (1) latches intervention locking element. The locking device in a locking position disables movement of the intervention locking element from the intervention detent position by positive connection between check outer surface (11,13) of the locking device and contact outer surface (83,84) of the intervention locking element.
